5 by adding Chapter 228 to read as follows:

6 CHAPTER 228. COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS WITH OTHER STATES

7 Sec. 228.001. DEFINITIONS. In this chapter:

8 (1) "Agent" includes:

9 (A) a surplus lines agent, as defined by Section
10 981.002;

11 (B) a person licensed as a surplus lines agent by 12 another state; and

13 (C) any other person who performs the acts of an
14 agent, whether through an oral, written, electronic, or other form
15 of communication, by soliciting, negotiating, procuring, or 16 collecting a premium on an insurance contract.

17 (2) "Insurer" has the meaning assigned by Section
18 101.002 and includes:

19 (A) an insurer that does not hold a certificate
20 of authority in this state;

21 (B) an eligible surplus lines insurer; and

22 (C) an insurer that holds a certificate of 23 authority in this state but performs acts outside the scope of its 24 authority under the certificate.

25 (3) "Premium" includes:

26 (A) any consideration for insurance, including:

27 (i) a premium;

- (ii) a membership fee;
- (iii) an assessment; and
- (iv) dues; or

(B) any other meaning of the term adopted in a cooperative agreement.

(4) "Processing entity" means a processing center or clearinghouse established under a cooperative agreement.

(5) "Stamping office" means the Surplus Lines Stamping Office of Texas or similar stamping offices in other states.

Sec. 228.002. COOPERATIVE AGREEMENTS WITH OTHER STATES.

(a) The comptroller may enter into a cooperative agreement, reciprocal agreement, or compact with another state for the collection of insurance premium taxes imposed by Chapters 225 and 226 on a multistate basis. An agreement or amendment of an agreement takes effect according to its terms, except that an agreement or amendment may not take effect until the proposed agreement or amendment is published in the Texas Register.

(b) An agreement may provide for:

(1) determining a base state and multistate allocation of insurance premiums;

(2) tax reporting requirements;

(3) audit and refund claim procedures;

(4) exchange of information;

(5) requirements for reporting on a multistate basis;

(6) insurance and tax related terms and definitions;

(7) penalties, fees, administrative costs, and interest rates;

1 (8) audit assessment and refund claim limitation
2 periods;

3 (9) procedures for collecting amounts due from 4 agents, insurers, or other persons and for collecting and
5 forwarding the amounts due to the jurisdiction to which the amount
6 is owed;

7 (10) procedures for verifying refund claims by agents,
8 insurers, or other persons and for collecting those amounts from 9 the jurisdiction owing the refund amount;

10 (11) the temporary remittal of funds equal to the 11 amounts due to another jurisdiction, subject to appropriation of 12 funds for that purpose; and

13 (12) other provisions to facilitate the 14 administration of the agreement.

15 (c) The comptroller may, as required by the terms of an
16 agreement, provide to an officer of another state any information
17 that relates to the solicitation, negotiation, procurement,
18 placement, issuance, receipt, or collection of premiums by an
19 agent, insurer, or other person for an insurance contract or policy
20 that may be subject to the premium taxes imposed by Chapter 225 or 21 226.

22 (d) An agreement may provide for each state to audit the 23 records of an agent, insurer, or other person based in this state to 24 determine if insurance premium taxes due each state that is a party
25 to the agreement are properly reported and paid. An agreement may 26 provide for each state to forward the findings of an audit performed
27 on an agent, insurer, or other person based in this state to each

1 other state in which the person has an allocation of taxable
2 premiums.

3 (e) For an agent, insurer, or other person who has an
4 allocation of taxable premiums in this state, the comptroller may 5 use an audit performed by another state that is a party to an
6 agreement with this state to make an assessment of insurance
7 premium taxes against the agent, insurer, or other person. An 8 assessment made by the comptroller under this subsection is prima
9 facie evidence that the amount shown as due is correct.

10 (f) An agreement entered into under this section does not
11 affect the comptroller's authority to audit any person under any 12 other law.

13 (g) An agreement entered into under this section prevails
14 over an inconsistent rule of the comptroller. Except as otherwise
15 provided by this section, a statute of this state prevails over an 16 inconsistent provision of an agreement entered into under this
17 section.

18 (h) The comptroller may segregate in a separate fund or 19 account the amount estimated to be due to other jurisdictions,
20 amounts subject to refund during the fiscal year, fees, and other
21 costs collected under the agreement. On a determination of an 22 amount held that is due to be remitted to another jurisdiction, the 23 comptroller may issue a warrant or make an electronic transfer of 24 the amount as necessary to carry out the purposes of the agreement.
25 An auditing cost, membership fee, or other cost associated with the 26 agreement may be paid from interest earned on funds segregated
27 under this subsection. Any interest earnings in excess of the costs

1 associated with the agreement shall be credited to general revenue.

2 (i) The legislature finds that it is in the public interest
3 to enter into insurance tax and regulatory agreements with other
4 jurisdictions that may provide for the temporary remittal of 5 amounts due other jurisdictions that exceed the amounts collected
6 and for cooperation with other jurisdictions for the collection of 7 taxes imposed by this state under Chapters 225 and 226 and similar
8 taxes imposed under statutes of other jurisdictions on insurance
9 premiums. The comptroller shall ensure that reasonable measures
10 are developed to recover insurance taxes and other amounts due this 11 state during each biennium.

12 (j) The comptroller may enter into a cooperative agreement,
13 reciprocal agreement, or compact with another state to provide for 14 the collection of taxes imposed by this state and the other states
15 on insurances taxes that may be due the states and this state based 16 on a standardized premium allocation adopted by the states under 17 the agreement. The comptroller may also enter into other
18 cooperative agreements with surplus lines stamping offices located 19 in this state and other states in the reporting and capturing of 20 related tax information. In addition, the comptroller may enter 21 into cooperative agreements with processing entities located in 22 this state or other states related to the capturing and processing
23 of insurance premium and tax data.

24 (k) The comptroller may adopt rules as necessary to 25 implement this chapter. In adopting rules under this chapter, the 26 comptroller may not adopt a rule that does not specifically
27 implement this section.

1 SECTION 12. Section 252.003, Insurance Code, is amended to
2 read as follows:

15 SECTION 13. Section 254.003, Insurance Code, is amended to
16 read as follows:

21 provisions in situations in which this state and the other state
22 determine that retaliation is not the preferred approach to protect 23 their domestic insurers from excessive taxation or other financial 24 obligations. In adopting rules under this section, the comptroller
25 may not adopt a rule that does not specifically implement this
26 section.

27 SECTION 17. Section 401.151(e), Insurance Code, is amended

1 to read as follows:

LEGISLATIVE BUDGET BOARD

Austin, Texas

FISCAL NOTE, 80TH LEGISLATIVE REGULAR SESSION

May 14, 2007

TO: Honorable Steve Ogden, Chair, Senate Committee on Finance

FROM: John S. O'Brien, Director, Legislative Budget Board

IN RE: HB3315 by Keffer, Jim (Relating to the imposition and collection of certain insurance taxes, the adoption of certain reciprocal or multistate agreements relating to those taxes, and the adoption of rules relating to those taxes.), As Engrossed

No significant fiscal implication to the State is anticipated.

The bill would amend various provisions in the Insurance Code to clarify current law, codify current practice, or conform the statutes to federal law; as well as, add a chapter to the Insurance Code to allow the Comptroller of Public Accounts to enter into reciprocal and cooperative agreements with other states relating to the collection of insurance premium taxes on surplus lines, unauthorized, and independently procured insurance.

The bill would repeal language relating to the administrative services tax. The Comptroller reports that the tax has not been enforced since the state lost a federal lawsuit in 1991 which related to the federal preemption under the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA) statute; therefore, no fiscal impact is anticipated.

The bill would also repeal language relating to the treatment of certified capital company premium tax credits under the retaliatory tax. The Comptroller states that this would make the Texas statute consistent with the retaliatory tax statutes of all other states in that; and as revised, the statute would not take into consideration tax credits or lower tax rates that result from investments or other financial commitments to a state. According to the Comptroller, the repeal would reinstate the retaliatory tax calculation to the same comparison as before the legislation that implemented the certified capital company credits; however, any potential fiscal impact cannot be estimated.

According to the Comptroller, the provisions of the bill that clarify current law, codify current practice, or conform the statutes to federal law would have no significant net fiscal impact. However, the provisions allowing the Comptroller to enter into cooperative agreements with other states would be permissive and depend on the nature and timing of any agreements so entered. Adoption of these sections is related to the states' ability to enforce their existing tax statutes; as such, the potential fiscal impact, if any, likely would be neutral or insignificant.

The bill would allow the Comptroller to enter into reciprocity agreements with other states to mutually set aside their retaliatory provisions in situations where those states determined that retaliation was not the preferred means of protecting their domestic insurers. According to the Comptroller, the provision would have no significant fiscal impact.

The bill would take effect immediately upon enactment if it receives two-thirds vote in each house; otherwise, it would take effect September 1, 2007.

Local Government Impact

No fiscal implication to units of local government is anticipated.

The bill would also repeal language relating to the treatment of certified capital company premium tax credits under the retaliatory tax. The Comptroller states that this would make the Texas statute consistent with the retaliatory tax statutes of all other states in that; and as revised, the statute would not take into consideration tax credits or lower tax rates that result from investments or other financial commitments to a state. According to the Comptroller, the repeal would reinstate the retaliatory tax calculation to the same comparison as before the legislation that implemented the certified capital company credits; however, any potential fiscal impact cannot be estimated.

According to the Comptroller, the provisions of the bill that clarify current law, codify current practice, or conform the statutes to federal law would have no significant net fiscal impact. However, the provisions allowing the Comptroller to enter into cooperative agreements with other states would be permissive and depend on the nature and timing of any agreements so entered. Adoption of these sections is related to the states' ability to enforce their existing tax statutes; as such, the potential fiscal impact, if any, likely would be neutral or insignificant.

The bill would take effect immediately upon enactment if it receives two-thirds vote in each house; otherwise, it would take effect September 1, 2007.
