AUTHOR'S / SPONSOR'S STATEMENT OF INTENT

The Texas Youth Commission (TYC) is the state's juvenile corrections agency, supervising youth committed to state confinement by local courts. The Texas Juvenile Probation Commission (TJPC) supports and oversees 165 juvenile probation departments serving all 254 Texas counties. The Office of Independent Ombudsman (OIO) is responsible for investigating, evaluating, and securing the rights of children committed to TYC.

TYC and TJPC are subject to the Sunset Act and will be abolished on September 1, 2011, unless continued by the legislature. OIO is subject to Sunset review, but is not subject to abolishment. The Sunset Advisory Commission considered these three agencies through a special purpose review, as required by H.B. 3689, 81st Legislature, Regular Session, 2009, and evaluated reforms initiated through S.B. 103, 80th Legislature, Regular Session, 2007.

The Sunset re-examination found that TYC, TJPC, and OIO have implemented the majority of required reforms, but that significant problems persist in the juvenile justice system. After several years of study, the Sunset Advisory Commission concluded that the time had come to consolidate the juvenile justice agencies into a single, fiscally responsible agency to serve youthful offenders. Creating a single agency will enhance reforms underway at TYC, and continue the success of initiatives to divert youth from TYC and serve them in their communities.

S.B. 653 has several major provisions. First, it creates a new agency, the Texas Juvenile Justice Department (TJJD), by merging the functions of TYC and TJPC under a single, 13-member governor-appointed board. The bill specifies the creation of the new agency is intended to establish a unified state juvenile justice agency that works in partnership with local county government, the courts, and communities to promote public safety and to create a system that produces positive outcomes for youth, families, and communities.

It reduces the transition period for the new agency from one year, as recommended by the Sunset Advisory Commission, to 90 days after the effective date of the Act (September 1, 2011) and makes the new agency effective December 1, 2011. The transition team will be composed of the following:

- representative of the governor, lieutenant governor, and the speaker of the house;
- representatives of TYC and TJPC, appointed by the respective boards of each agency;
- small, medium, and large probation departments (appointed by the governor); and
- youth, family, and victim advocacy groups (appointed by the governor).

The transition team is to be appointed by the governor as soon as possible after September 1, 2011, and no later than October 1, 2011. The team will coordinate and oversee the transition for the first 90 days, then assist the newly established agency and its newly appointed board until August 31, 2012.

The governor-appointed TJJD board (board) will be composed of the following:

- one district court judge who sits as a juvenile court judge;
- three county commissioners;
- one juvenile court prosecutor;

- three chief juvenile probation officers representing small, medium, and large counties;
- one adolescent mental health treatment professional licensed under Subtitle B (Physicians) or I (Regulation of Psychology and Counseling), Title 3 (Health Professions), Occupations Code;
- one educator, as defined by Section 5.001 (Definitions), Education Code; and
- three members of the general public.

OIO is maintained, however, as an office within the new agency to oversee the rights of youth committed to state facilities. The bill allows the state to transfer closed TYC facilities, in counties with populations less than 100,000, to the county or city where the facility is located. The new agency is continued for six years.

Other provisions in the bill include: changes to the composition of the Advisory Council on Juvenile Services (advisory council), as well as expanding the duties of the advisory council; clarification that criminal complaints will be referred to the Office of Inspector General, while civil complaints will be referred to OIO; clarification that probation departments can appeal decisions of the executive director of TJJD (executive director) relating to juvenile probation programs, services, or facilities to the board; clarification that annual financial report and internal audit requirements apply to the entire TJJD; a requirement that the board produce a report on the merger; establishment of a single hotline for possible violations of youth rights; clarification that the board, not TJJD or the executive director, is responsible for rulemaking; removal of language related to coordinated, interagency, and joint strategic planning; clarification that annual report on probation services applies only to probation services; removal of language specifying a single facility or TJJD to contract with for mental health services; reinstatement of the requirement that the agency develop a clear mission statement; a requirement that the inspector general report to, and be appointed by, the board; clarification of agency names in agreements between TJJD and DFPS; and consolidation of Comprehensive Reentry and Reintegration Plan provisions and requires youth under supervision to sign their conditions of release.

S.B. 653 amends current law relating to abolishing the Texas Youth Commission and the Texas Juvenile Probation Commission and transferring the powers and duties of those agencies to the newly created Texas Juvenile Justice Department and to the functions of the independent ombudsman that serves the department.
